Martín Abregu is the Representative of the Ford Foundation’s Office for the Andean Region and Southern Cone in Santiago, Chile, and is responsible for the Governance and Civil Society portfolio. He was previously Executive Director of the Center for Legal and Social Studies (CELS).

Felipe Agüero is program officer for human rights (Andean region and Southern Cone) at the Ford Foundation in Santiago, Chile. He was previously assistant professor of international studies at the University of Miami.

Genaro Arriagada is vice president of the Executive Council of the Universidad de las Americas in Santiago, Chile and a non-resident senior fellow at the Inter-American Dialogue. He also served as Chile’s ambassador to the United States.

Carlos Basombrío is a sociologist, consultant for Capital Humano y Social, SA. He also served as vice minister of the interior of Peru.

Julio Bitelli is the political minister at the embassy of Brazil in La Paz, Bolivia. He previously served at the embassy in Washington and the Office of the Special Advisor to the President of Brazil.

Adrián Bonilla is director of FLACSO Ecuador, specializing in international affairs and regional security.

María del Carmen Feijóo is responsible for the Education Reform portfolio at the Ford Foundation’s Office for the Andean Region in Santiago, Chile. She previously served as a Liaison Officer for Argentina at the United Nations Population Fund and as a professor of Education Policy at the National University of Quilmes.

Gino Costa is the president of the Lima-based public policy group Ciudad Nuestra. He served as minister of the interior of Peru during the presidency of Alejandro Toledo.

Lucía Dammert is the director of the “Security and Citizenship” program at FLACSO-Chile. She has previously worked in the fields of security and citizenship for the Organization of American States and the Interior Ministry of Chile.

Carlos Iván Degregori is an anthropologist and director general of the Instituto de Estudios Peruanos. He also served on the Peruvian Truth and Reconciliation Commission.

Sandra Dunsmore is the regional director for Latin America at the Open Society Institute in Washington.

Eduardo Gamarra is professor of political science at Florida International University and the president of the NewLink Political consulting firm.
George Gray Molina is a Global Leaders Fellow at Oxford University. He was previously an economist with the United Nations Development Program in Bolivia.

Peter Hakim is the president of the Inter-American Dialogue.

Yolanda Kakabadse is the general counsel for Fundación Futuro Latinoamericano in Quito, Ecuador. She previously served as Minister of the Environment.

César Montúfar is professor of social and global studies at the Universidad Andina Simón Bolivar in Quito, Ecuador.

Antonio Navarro is the governor of the department of Nariño in Colombia and has served as senator for the Polo Democrático Alternativo.

Rodrigo Pardo is the director of the newsmagazine Cambio and was previously foreign minister of Colombia and ambassador to Venezuela and France.

Michael Penfold is associate professor at the Instituto de Estudios Superiores de Administración in Caracas, Venezuela.

Teodoro Petkoff is the director of the newspaper Tal Cual in Caracas, Venezuela.

María Paula Romo is a member of the National Assembly of Ecuador from the Movimiento País Party and was a member of the recent Constitutional Assembly.

Ana María Sanjuán is director of the Centro de Paz y Derechos Humanos at the Universidad Central de Venezuela.

Michael Shifter is vice president for policy at the Inter-American Dialogue and adjunct professor at Georgetown University’s School of Foreign Service.

Eduardo Stein is an independent consultant as well as a former vice president and foreign minister of Guatemala.

José Miguel Vivanco is the executive director of Human Rights Watch – Americas in Washington, DC.

Victoria Wigodzky is the program officer for democracy and human rights in the Latin America Program of the Open Society Institute.