Felipe Agüero is program officer for human rights (Andean region and Southern Cone) at the Ford Foundation in Santiago, Chile. He was previously associate professor of international studies at the University of Miami.

Rosana Alvarado is a member of the National Assembly of Ecuador from the Movimiento País Party.

Cynthia Arnson is the director of the Latin America program at the Woodrow Wilson International Center for Scholars.

Genaro Arriagada is vice president of the Executive Council of the Universidad de las Americas in Santiago, Chile and a non-resident senior fellow at the Inter-American Dialogue. He also served as Chile’s ambassador to the United States.

Carlos Basombrío is a sociologist and consultant for Capital Humano y Social, SA. He also served as vice minister of the interior of Peru.

Julio Bitelli is the Deputy Chief of Mission at the Embassy of Brazil in Buenos Aires, Argentina. He previously served at the embassy in La Paz, Washington, and the Office of the Special Advisor to the President of Brazil.

Adrián Bonilla is director of FLACSO Ecuador, specializing in international affairs and regional security.

Lázaro Cárdenas is a Mexican politician who served as the governor of Michoacán state in Mexico.

Kevin Casas-Zamora is a senior fellow at the Brookings Institution’s Latin America Initiative. He previously served as Costa Rica’s vice president, as well as minister of national planning and economic policy.

Gino Costa is the president of the Lima-based public policy group Ciudad Nuestra. He served as minister of the interior of Peru during the presidency of Alejandro Toledo.

Sandra Dunsmore is the regional director for Latin America at the Open Society Institute in Washington.

Eduardo Gamarra is professor of political science at Florida International University and the president of the NewLink Political consulting firm.

Roberto Gargarella is a Visiting Scholar at Harvard University’s David Rockefeller Center for Latin American Studies and a researcher for the National Research Council (CONICET) in Argentina. He is also Professor of Constitutional Theory at the University of Torcuato Di Tella and University of Buenos Aires.

Gladis Genua is the Deputy Director of the Corporación Andina de Fomento (CAF).
George Gray Molina is an Oxford-Princeton Global Leaders Fellow at Princeton University’s Woodrow Wilson School for Public and International Affairs. He was previously an economist with the United Nations Development Program in Bolivia.

Peter Hakim is the president emeritus of the Inter-American Dialogue.

Yolanda Kakabadse is the general counsel for Fundación Futuro Latinoamericano in Quito, Ecuador. She previously served as Minister of the Environment.

Miriam Kornblith is regional director for Latin America and the Caribbean at the National Endowment for Democracy.

César Montúfar is a member of the National Assembly of Ecuador from the Concertación Nacional Democrática party.

Antonio Navarro is the governor of the department of Nariño in Colombia and has served as senator for the Polo Democrático Alternativo.

Rafael Nieto is a lawyer and political analyst, as well as a former vice minister of justice in Colombia.

Pedro Nikken is a former Judge and President of the Inter-American Court of Human Rights. He is a member of the Andean Commission of Jurists and a Professor of Civil and International Law at the Universidad Central de Venezuela.

Rodrigo Pardo is the editorial director of the newsmagazine Semana and was previously foreign minister of Colombia and ambassador to Venezuela and France.

Marta Lucía Ramírez is a senator for the Partido de la ‘U’. She also served as Colombia’s minister of defense, minister of trade and ambassador to France.

Ana María Sanjuán is director of the Centro de Paz y Derechos Humanos at the Universidad Central de Venezuela.

Michael Shifter is president of the Inter-American Dialogue.

Paulo Sotero is the director of the Brazil Institute at the Woodrow Wilson International Center for Scholars. He previously was the Washington reporter for O Estado de São Paulo.

Matias Spektor is a visiting fellow in the Latin America studies program at the Council on Foreign Relations. He also coordinates the Center for International Studies at Fundação Getulio Vargas.

Eduardo Stein is an independent consultant as well as a former vice president and foreign minister of Guatemala.

José Miguel Vivanco is the executive director of Human Rights Watch – Americas in Washington, DC.

John Walsh is the Senior Associate for the Andes and Drug Policy at the Washington Office on Latin America.

Victoria Wigodzky is the program officer for democracy and human rights in the Latin America Program of the Open Society Institute.